SUMMARY

In 2003, AHFA produced a publication called Sweet Home Alabama, A Census-Based Snapshot of Selected Housing Conditions. It was prepared at our request by Donald W. Bogie, Ph.D., then of the Center for Demographic Research at Auburn University Montgomery. By using data drawn primarily from the Year 2000 U.S. Census, the report analyzed housing characteristics and trends in Alabama and its 67 counties. Dr. Bogie examined the state's housing units according to types of structure, value, cost, and condition, along with the characteristics of the people who inhabit them. Statistical profiles of each county were also included as an appendix to the report.

In the years following the Sweet Home Alabama publication, the nation has conducted another decennial Census and newer, more accurate data has been made available. While we have not, at this time, conducted an extensive edit of the original 2003 narrative, the individual county profiles have been updated and a series of county rankings for selected population and housing characteristics have been created using Year 2010 U.S. Census figures.

NOTES: The data used for this publication was drawn from the Year 2010 U.S. Census. Whenever available, actual findings from the Census forms were used. If specific information needed for this effort was not gathered by the U.S. Census Bureau on their forms, AHFA utilized the American Community Survey (ACS) – the three-year estimate for 2008-2010.

FOOTNOTES

- <sup>1</sup> Respondents to the 2010 Census could indicate one race only or a mixture of two or more races.
- <sup>2</sup> Hispanics may be of any race.
- <sup>3</sup> The point at which half of all households are above the specified income figure and half are below.
- <sup>4</sup> The poverty threshold for a family of four (two adults and two children) in 2010 was $22,113.
- <sup>5</sup> All of the territory, population, and housing units that are located within “urbanized areas” and “urban clusters.” An “urbanized area” consists of densely settled territory that contains 50,000 people or more. An “urban cluster” consists of densely settled territory that has at least 2,500 people, but fewer than 50,000.
- <sup>6</sup> Percentage is computed using occupied housing units as the base.
- <sup>7</sup> Housing structures with two or more units. Percentage is computed using all housing units as the base.
- <sup>8</sup> Percentage is computed using all housing units as the base.
- <sup>9</sup> The point at which half of all households are valued above the specified dollar amount and half are below. Housing values reflect estimates of owners and exclude homes with business structures (such as a physician’s office) on the same property.
- <sup>10</sup> The monthly rent agreed to or contracted for plus the estimated average monthly cost of utilities and fuels if the renter pays these costs.
- <sup>11</sup> Housing units with an average of 1.01 or more persons per room.
